IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Harry Lord One Who Came Back.

Who said Harry Lord, the Chicago American third baseman, was all in? Whoever did would soon change their minds if they watched him perform at last station for the White Sox this season. True, last year he was away off form and was shifted to the outfield by Manager Callahan. Since the start of the 1913 race Harry has been putting up a brilliant article of ball, especially in the fielding line. His stick work also seems to have improved. A few years ago Lord was considered the best third baseman in the American league. Judging by the game he has been putting up so far this season, he has a fair chance to grab back the honors.

Athletics at Dartmouth.

Some light upon the officials who had proved incompetent was recently thrown by Frank Cavanaugh of Dartmouth, who declared that old football players were the most ignorant examples of this sort. He stated that many times the men who had graduated from their colleges after a brilliant life on the gridiron knew less about football rules than men who had never played.

International Football.

Dates set for the annual international association football games include the following: Jan. 17, 1914, Wales versus Ireland in England; Feb. 14, 1914, England versus Ireland in England; Feb. 20, 1914, Scotland versus Wales in Scotland; March 14, 1914, Scotland versus Ireland in Scotland; March 16, 1914, Wales versus England in Wales; April 4, 1914, Scotland versus England in Scotland.

Baseball Abroad.

Richard C. Klein has announced an international baseball league in Europe. Teams have already been formed in London and Paris, and the proposed league will include also Berlin, Brussels, Copenhagen, Monte Carlo, Milan and Nice. Klein has leased the stadium in London. The players hail from the United States.

England Not in Australian Regatta.

The Amateur Rowing Association of England has forbidden an English eight oared shell crew to go to Australia for the purpose of competing at the Henley-on-Trent regatta next September. The objection of the governing body is because the Australian officials were to provide the English oarsmen with return tickets for their journey.

England Takes Up Pole Vaulting Again.

English athletes are to take up pole vaulting, hitherto neglected owing to the danger of the pole breaking and the jumper being impaled on it. They have recently introduced a new pole, composed of bamboo bound with a certain kind of tape, which is of extraordinary strength and safe.

Cheney Knows Wagner's Weakness.

Larry Cheney of the Cubs says that last season he learned the secret of how to pitch to Hans Wagner. Fast balls inside, he says, are the hardest for Honus to hit, but he admits that the Dutchman probably could average .300 off those two.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

How Kolehmainen, Finnish
Runner, Trains.

This is how Hannes Kolehmainen of Finland, the champion amateur runner, goes about keeping himself in trim:

Eats no meats.
Cooks his own meals.
Arises at 6 o'clock and walks two hours.
Goes to work and sticks till 8 o'clock.
Runs a couple of miles.
Keeps his muscles always warm.
Has careful massage according to his own scheme.
Wears woman's stockings up to his thighs on cold days.
Gets to bed early and sleeps.

A Family of Ball Players.

Rivalling the famous Kentucky Gillingham family baseball team is the team that represents the thriving Maryland town of Barton, for here, too, all the players are brothers, and the aggregation is managed by the father of the nine, William J. Metz. For several years, ever since the youngest member, Charles R., was able to handle a bat and throw a ball across a diamond, the Metz boys have been playing together, and with such success that they have cleaned up nines from rival towns in their vicinity with unbroken success. Henry, the pitcher, has twirled with such ability that he has been approached by scouts for professional clubs; but, like the rest of the family, he plays ball because he enjoys the sport, and he has rejected all offers to figure in swifter company.

Joe Wood Is Modest.

Though there is a division of opinion among the fans as to who is the greater pitcher, Joe Wood or Walter Johnson, ball players who have battled against both of the speed marvels insist that Johnson is Wood's master.

Wood himself concedes that Johnson has something on him. He points to the fact that Walter is much taller and has longer arms, which give him more speed, and he also realizes the fact that Johnson, when pitching, is under no apparent strain. Wood, by the way, has failed to show any of last year's form this season, and it is questionable whether he will be right for some time yet.

France Takes Up Athletics.

The development of sport and athletics may shortly be taken under the direct supervision of the French government, the idea being that physical training of the rising generation is quite as important to the nation as art or railways and that it is in accord with the new spirit of progress in France.

The French cabinet, it is understood, has under consideration the question of asking parliament to create an under-secretary of state who shall be attached to the ministry of labor and whose duties will be solely to look after sporting affairs.

Pitcher Leonard Has New Alibi.

Leonard, the new southpaw pitcher of the Red Sox, pulled a new one recently when he was getting wild. He threw his glove to the bench, and a new one was given him. That is a new alibi. It was the fault of the glove.

Washington Has Youngest Player.

Young Acosta is only sixteen years old, but has signed with Clark Griffith, manager of the Senators. He is the most youthful athlete in the big leagues. His home is in Havana. He is an outfielder.
